

PARENT RESOURCE GUIDE: INTERNET SAFETY & CYBER-BULLYING

<https://www.aap.org> The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) Releases studies and findings on the impact social media has on kids and families.

<https://www.netnanny.com>: Monitor social media sites, block chats, filter content and much more.

<https://www.mymobilewatchdog.com>: Monitoring site to track information from your child's cell phone.

<http://lol.disney.com/games> & <http://whyville.com/smmk/nice>: Both child-friendly social networking sites for students in elementary and middle school.

<http://wiredsafety.org>: Education, advice, information and resources for internet safety and Cyber-bullying

<http://www.sprint.com/4netsafety>: A parent's guide to mobile phones and resource that teaches teens how to avoid unwise and embarrassing posts.

<http://www.internetsafety101.org>: Geared towards parents and educators on internet safety.

<http://www.ikeepsafe.org>: Partnership with crime prevention organizations, law enforcement agencies, foundations and corporate sponsors to assist parents.

<http://www.netsmartz.org/Parents>: Covers topics such as social networking, identity theft, predators, cyberbullying, sexting, chat rooms, blogging, inappropriate content, and cell phones.

<http://onguardonline.gov>: Federal government's website for safe, secure, and responsible Internet use. It contains information about protecting children online, securing computers, and more.

<http://stopbullying.gov>: Information on bullying laws in your state.

<http://www.cmch.tv>: Provides resources for parents and teachers, including guides on "the Internet talk" for preschoolers, school-age children, tweens, and teenagers.

<http://www.childnet-int.org>: A non-profit organization that conducts Internet safety sessions in schools and communities

<http://www.fosi.org>: Forum for sharing information with other parents about responsible Internet use.